

Energy Star Office Equipment

The City of Corning is committed to reducing power costs through the purchase of energy efficient office equipment.

The Energy Star program was established by the Environmental Protection Agency in 1992 and operates under the authority of the Clean Air Act. Energy Star and its partners have helped save residents and businesses on their energy bills while also reducing emissions.

Energy Star began with labels for computer and printer products. Since its inception, the program has expanded to other electronics, lighting, and heating and cooling systems. The City of Corning has administrative procedures to purchase Energy Star products when practicable.
